Undergraduate program — BSBA
Majors include accounting, finance, marketing, and management, as well as concentrations in international business, entrepreneurship, and management of information systems.

MBA
Maintaining the presentation of financial information and internal data, majors are sought by accounting firms, public or private companies, nonprofit and government entities for financial reporting, taxation, auditing and business consulting.

Finance
Students focus on issues ranging from financial markets and institutions; methods of financing business operations; and security valuation and portfolios management. Emphasis places commercial and investment banking; brokerage and financial management principles, as well as investment decision making.

Marketing
Graduates prepare for retail management, advertising, marketing research and international marketing, and develop business skills such as leadership, professional ethics and teamwork.

Management
Majors navigate the complexities of corporate, international and small business management, and hone administrative and organizational principles, such as leadership, organizational change, strategic analysis, production systems analysis and human resource management.

International Business
In this concentration, students learn about international trade, managing a global business and dealing with international markets, and are expected to develop strong interpersonal and cultural competence.

As part of my internship with Maine Business School, I will be able to use the knowledge and skills that I gained in my undergraduate degree with my MBA, giving me a competitive advantage.

World-class, world-leading faculty

All professors are active in all aspects of teaching, research and public service. At the same time, they place a high value on quality education and have an open-door policy for students. MBS faculty speak at worldwide conferences on entrepreneurship, investment management, international markets, decision support systems, strategy planning and business approaches to sustainability. They advise Maine businesses, organizations and governments, and provide many opportunities for students to gain real-world experience in the field.

Opportunities to excel

At UMaine, learning isn’t confined to the classroom. In fact, that’s only the beginning. Alpha Kappa Psi, the largest professional business, gender-inclusive fraternity in the world, hosts a UMaine chapter. The American Marketing Association and Institute of Management Accountants also offer opportunities to hone networking and leadership skills. There are even opportunities for real-world, resume-building experience. Marketing students engage in service-learning projects, such as a recent cultural tourism survey conducted for Maine’s four Native American tribes. Accounting students gain hands-on experience preparing federal and state income tax returns for students and low-income taxpayers through the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) program, sponsored by the IRS.

Scholarships

The Maine Business School offers traditional 39-credit hour MBA, and a 36-credit hour MBA for working professionals. Both programs equip students with practical skills and a global perspective to tackle the challenges of business in the 21st century. Our MBA graduates are business leaders who think strategically and critically, work with complex issues, solve problems in innovative ways and adapt to change.

Real-world experience

Students study abroad (recent destinations include Russia, Germany and Japan), learn global business practices, and may either intern or join a consulting team project. Courses run in the fall, spring and summer semesters, and are offered on campus and online.
