Health Care Policy MBA Course
August 17-21, 2015

Managing Business, Government, and Public Policy
The Washington Campus intensive, experiential MBA courses bring participants face-to-face with policy makers, policy influencers, and executives who teach how government works and public policy is made; how organizations and industries are affected, and how they can more effectively manage public affairs and government relations; and how public policy can be strategically and ethically shaped to create profitable and sustainable solutions for business, government, and society.

From Recent MBA Course Participants

• “Fantastic, very informative. Relevant topics, highly knowledgeable speakers, valuable insights. This program should be a requirement for all MBAs.”
• “This is not an experience we can get anywhere else. Thank you.”
• “Really opened my eyes to how DC works. Applying this knowledge to my business will be incredibly valuable.”
• “This course should be a must for all business leaders. I come from both a business and policy background and learned so much.”
• “Engaging content, excellent speakers, lively interaction - a very enjoyable experience.”
