The School of Food and Agriculture educates the next generation of food and agriculture professionals and addresses stakeholder needs through relevant research and outreach. Reflecting the land grant mission, our programs support Maine's agricultural community and strengthen Maine's economy, while promoting human, animal and plant health, and ecosystem sustainability.