Access

Equal access must be the centerpiece of an information policy at all levels of government.

Idea reflected in various ways including:

- 1. Freedom of Information Acts
  - fed and state
- 2. Paperwork Reduction Act encourages diversity of sources for government information

OMB Circulars: A-130 encourages affirmative dissemination

| 3. Intellectual property law not applicable to public information (i.e. federal records)                           |   |      |  |

| 4. First Amendment (Free Speech) invalidation of most competitive publishing restrictions imposed by government    |   |      |  |
|  |   |      |  |
| 5. Antitrust law is suspicious of state monopolies.  |   |      |  |

| Better Framing of Policy Issues  |   |      |  |
| The best public information policy is one that promotes:   |   |      |  |
| 1. A diversity of channels and sources of public information.  |   |      |  |
| 2. Public information availability in electronic formats   |   |  |  |

3. Healthy competition in the information marketplace.

Monopolies block participation in a variety of diverse markets for information products .... restrictions extend into downstream markets

Public decision makers not better than consumers & entrepreneurs in choosing technologies and product designs

Perrott's View

Framework for access to public information - begin with two policy propositions

- Gov't must make electronic formats available when they exist.
- Gov't must allow and promote diversity of channels and sources of public information
  - no one supplier can design information systems to meet all user needs

| Federal FOIA Case Law  |   |
|--|---|
| A. Right to Access Extends to Virtually All Federal Records and All Federal Agencies.  |   |
| Issues: What is a federal government record? (i.e. attempts to avoid release under FOIA)   |   |
| 1) Is a government contractor a government agency for purposes of the act?  - gov't control over record or database?  2) If gov contractor adds proprietary features (copyright), does access or copyright prevail? [Tax Analysts v. US Dept of Justice] |   |
|  |   |
| B. Right to Access extends to all individuals and entities regardless of reason for request  |   |
| [US Dept of Justice v. Tax Analysts, 492 U.S. 136 (1989)]  |   |
| C. Government Required to provide Electronic Copy even if Paper Document Available. [Id.]  |   |
| <ul> <li>review and printing/copying of electronicrecords not "creation" of a new record</li> </ul>   |   |
|  |   |
|  | 1 |
|  |   |
| Result:  |   |
| FOIA not only requires the government to provide access to government databases and information about private individuals who request it, but facilitates  |   |
| commerce by granting access to business entities requesting information for commercial purposes and in a form conducive to electronic manipulation   |   |
