

Department of Communication and Journalism

July 6th, 1pm, EST

107 Normal Smith Hall
Or Zoom

Thesis defense:

Access for whom? The rhetorical and material realities of access in wild intertidal shellfish fisheries in Maine

B. Lauer

B Lauer is a candidate for a Master of Arts in Communication and Journalism with specialization in Conservation Science and Practice. Using a rhetorical and discursive orientation, she will be telling the story of two years spent understanding how access to coastal spaces and fisheries manifests, is threatened, and is being protected, preserved and expanded.

For more information, please contact: brennan.lauer@maine.edu

Join Zoom here or by visiting:

<https://maine.zoom.us/j/7978884357>.

Meeting I.D.: 797 888 4357

