Maine and Wabanaki people are at an historical juncture in their long relationship. This workshop is designed for non-Native people to reflect on their shared history and future with Native people. It includes an interactive telling of history; awareness of white privilege; and an introduction to decolonization of our educational institutions. Educators for all ages and the University community members are encouraged to come. Maine-Wabanaki REACH workshops have been well received across the state with over 850 Mainers participating. This workshop is free. Lunch will be provided.

This program is sponsored by Decolonizing UMaine, with generous support from the Alton '38 and Adelaide Hamm Campus Activity Fund and the College of Education and Human Development. Maine-Wabanaki REACH is a cross-cultural organization working in support of Wabanaki self-determination.

Registration is required at http://www.mainewabanakireach.org/events. For questions contact, Barbara@mainewabanakireach.org, or john.maddaus@maine.edu.

The University of Maine is an EEO/AA employer, and does not discriminate on the grounds of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, transgender status, gender expression, national origin, citizenship status, age, disability, genetic information or veteran's status in employment, education, and all other programs and activities. The following person has been designated to handle inquiries regarding non-discrimination policies: Sarah E. Harebo, Director of Equal Opportunity, 101 North Stevens Hall, University of Maine, Orono, ME 04469-5754, 207.581.1226, TTY 711 (Maine Relay System).