

Financial Consideration

The B.S. in Cybersecurity will require additional faculty resources in order to teach computer science courses that are part of the Cybersecurity curriculum. A total of twelve COS courses are part of the required courses. While most of these courses are existing courses, several are not offered on a regular basis. The School of Computing and Information Science does not have the faculty in order to offer these additional courses.

The following resources are needed:

Academic Year 2016: Section money to offer COS 221 in Spring 2016.

Academic Year 2017: Section money to offer (1) COS 221 in Spring 2017 and (2) COS 336 in Fall 2016, and (3) for COS 140 in Fall 2016 in case it's enrollment exceeds 100 students.

Starting in Fall 2017, we will need a full-time faculty.