2578 Collected by Norman Cazden, ca. 1960-1978. 24 tape reels belonging to the late Norman Cazden, a composer and musicologist, and faculty member of the University of Maine who had a long-standing interest in traditional American folk music. The tapes appear to contain dubs of commercially recorded LPs but also other material which is very diverse and possibly unique and significant. Several reels contain folk songs and ballads compiled by Edith Fowke, an eminent Canadian collector, from her own collection; one reel contains unpublished(?) Woody Guthrie recordings from a private collection; two reels contain Adirondack woods songs compiled by folklorist, Bob Bethke, in conjunction with Bethke's book on Ted Ashlaw, a singer; several reels contain Scottish bagpipe music not from LPs; two reels contain Negro convict songs collected by Bruce Jackson; one reel features Native American songs from the David McAllester Collection at Wesleyan University. Each tape box contains a typed contents listing prepared by Norman Cazden; these have been photocopied and placed in the accession folder. RESTRICTED

Text: 30 pp. index and notes

Recordings: T 2026 - T 2049

[Source reels 2578.1 - 2578.24 are also labeled with Cazden's own numbers but are not in a contiguous sequence.]
