

The World War II Japanese American Incarceration and Why it Matters Today

Tom Ikeda
Director of Denshō

D E N S H Ō

Monday, November 13, 7:00 p.m.
Bangor Room, Memorial Union

FREE and open to the public

Denshō — a Japanese term meaning “to pass on to the next generation,” or to leave a legacy.

Densho is a grassroots organization dedicated to preserving, educating, and sharing the story of World War II-era incarceration of Japanese Americans in order to deepen understandings of American history and inspire action for equity.

Sponsored By:

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences, the Clement and Linda McGillicuddy Center,
Department of Modern Languages and Classics, School for Policy and International Affairs,
Department of Political Science, Department of History, and the Office of International Programs.

This event is supported in part by a grant from the Cultural Affairs/Distinguished Lecture Series Fund.

For more information, contact
Jane Smith, 207.581.2075.