

Student design finds practical application

THREE seniors in mechanical engineering technology at the University of Maine designed a mechanical handsplint to replace a brace worn by a paraplegic, Jim Parsons (seated). Paul DeLorme, Joel Anderson and Wade Cyr gathered at Crosby Hall on the UM campus to see how the device worked.

NEWS Photos by Tom Hindman

