

HISPANIC HERITAGE MONTH LECTURE SERIES 2017

All lectures will be in Arthur St. John Hill Auditorium Room 165 Barrows Hall, University of Maine at 6:30 p.m. with a reception to follow. Admission to this series is free and open to the public.

Thursday, September 21, 2017

Rachelle Tome

Former Chief Academic Officer for the Maine Department of Education

"Experiences as a Latino that Influenced a Career"

Thursday, September 28, 2017

Marco Aviles

Author and Journalist

"Cholo in Peru, Latino in the United States. How Similar is Racism and White Privilege in the North and in the South? A Personal History"

Thursday, October 5, 2017

Zachary Ludington

Assistant Professor of Spanish,
University of Maine

*"Puntos suspensivos: A Personal
Geography for Hispanic Heritage Month"*

Thursday, October 12, 2017

Katie Greenman

PICA Volunteer

"SISTERING with Carasque-A Journey in Solidarity"

This event has been generously sponsored by: CHISPA Centro Hispano and

For more about CHISPA Centro Hispano: Find us on Facebook

For more information or a disability accommodation, please contact:

Maria Rave at maria.rave@maine.edu or Maria Sandweiss at maria.sandweiss@maine.edu

The University of Maine is an equal opportunity/affirmative action institution