

Recording Advising Reports and Notes

The Navigate platform is a web-based tool developed by EAB that facilitates a campus-wide coordinated student support network by allowing advisors and other professionals to share Appointment Summary Reports and Notes that document interactions and other relevant information. The benefits of a single, accessible repository for Reports and Notes include improved communication, coordination, efficiency, transparency, and a more personalized student experience in advising.

Why should you create an Appointment Summary Report when meeting with a student?

- Reminder of the advice given during meetings with students (in person, by email or phone)
- Help advisors and other student support staff communicate and provide consistent, informed service
- Create an “institutional memory” of contacts and recommended actions
- Record valuable data on student use of support services and associated outcomes

The content of Appointment Summary Reports aims to communicate:

- For what was the student seeking help?
- What steps were taken to address the student’s concerns?
- What advice and recommendations were made?
- What are agreed upon follow-up actions? Were specific referrals made?
- Overall, summarize what you discussed as it relates to the student’s success.

Why should you create a Note?

- Record important information that you learned outside of an advising appointment (e.g. changes in registration, financial aid, etc.)
- Record the outcomes of your efforts to resolve issues for the student.
- Communicate important notices to the student (You must make the Note visible to the student for this and share the staff platform link with them).

What’s the difference between an Advising Report and a Note?

- Appointment Summary Reports document important information about advising appointments, such as dates, times, reasons and locations.
- Notes describe information about the student that you gained outside of an appointment. They are often more transactional in nature (e.g. the Registrar’s office, “In compliance with Repeat Policy, student has exhausted maximum allowed.”)

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) entitles students to access any reports or notes considered part of their academic record. Any Advising Reports or Notes created in the Navigate platform are considered part of a student's academic record and are accessible by students, open records requests, and court subpoenas. This applies to Notes whether they are designated as shared with students in the platform or not.

With FERPA in mind:

✓ Assume students, parents, or the general public will read anything and everything you have written.

✓ When writing your advising reports and notes, ask yourself the following questions:

1. Is this something the student would want other people to know?
2. Is this something another advisor would need to know? Why?
3. Is this something that is within my scope of practice to say? Do I have the necessary training, and is this something germane to my area of professional expertise?
4. Are the details in my notes based on fact or do they merely represent my own observations, perspectives, guesses, predictions, diagnoses, etc.?

“Describe, don't evaluate”

“When in doubt, leave it out”

✓ Advising reports and notes should be academic-related and avoid including personal, potentially sensitive content.

✓ Personal and/or sensitive content, whether reported by the student or assumed by you, may include:

- Medical / mental health concerns
- Legal problems
- Relationship problems
- Family concerns
- Conflicts with specific instructors
- Information about academic integrity or student conduct proceedings

✓ This information should NOT be included in the student's academic record
