SOC 340 (0990)/WGS 301/501 (0990): Gender and the History of Psychiatry
This course examines the history of women’s interactions with the psychiatric profession in Western society and the gender biases in the diagnosis and treatment of mental disorders. We will examine the biological explanations used to explain mental disorder in women, the former psychiatric diagnoses commonly given to women (such as hysteria and nymphomania), the therapies used to "cure" women, including gynecological surgery, and how these diagnostic categories have shifted over time while the underlying themes have remained. (Mary Okin, Online, 6/21-7/30, #80662) Cr. 3

SOC 340-0991: Technology and Society
Technology has always had an impact on social structure and societies have continually had to adapt to new innovation. With the advent of personal computing the challenge has quickened. Since the mid-1990s technology has had a profound impact on all aspects of our lives. The Internet and mobile computing devices have created an entirely new way of interacting with others. This course will explore how technology, in general, and contemporary computing devices, specifically, have altered social arrangements. We will look at the upside of this technology and also the challenges we face as we adapt. (Glenn Eichel, 8/2-20, #80660) 3 Cr.

SOC 340-0992: Intermediate Topics in Sociology: Social Entrepreneurship in Cybersecurity
This course is designed to develop students’ problem-solving skills by asking them to create an innovative community-oriented project for a cybersecurity problem. The project could be a non-profit program, product or initiative for which students will use knowledge about cybersecurity and entrepreneurial practices. It could be in the form of an independent project for individual students or a group project. (Lora Pitman, 7/12-30, #80661) 3 Cr.
