GENDER AND HIGHER-ED LEADERSHIP IN BANGOR AND THE SURROUNDING COMMUNITY

WEDNESDAY FEBRUARY 15TH, 1-2 PM
COE ROOM IN MEMORIAL UNION

This roundtable discussion features Shannon Shaw (principle at Abraham Lincoln School in Bangor), Kerri Wyman (principle at Asa Adams in Orono) and Dana Carver-Bialer, Bangor School Department's Coordinator of Diversity, Equity, Inclusion and Belonging), as they discuss such issues as:

What drew them to a leadership position?

Why gender- and sex-discrimination remains an important issue for Maine educators to be attentive to, and especially for educators in a leadership position?

Surprises since taking a leadership position regarding gender-related bias in the school system .

Barriers that might still be in place for non-white men who are seeking leadership positions in education in Maine (or more specifically the Bangor/Orono area). Suggestions about how to address these barriers.
